M11 J7 FUNDING TO BE DIVERTED INTO LINK ROAD?

Letter from minister proposes 'adjusting commitments'

William Mata

hertsessexnews.co.uk

CASH earmarked for improvements to Harlow's Junction 7 could be used to fund controversial plans for a new M11 link road, it has been revealed.

A letter, seen by the Star, from transport minister Andrew Jones to Harlow MP Robert Halfon, states that both the Department for Transport and Highways England are committed to delivering improvement schemes like Junction 7 but that there is a "particularly strong case for considering flexibility".

Pledged

Mr Jones wrote: "The argument presented by you, Eleanor [Laing, the MP for Epping], Harlow and Essex councils in favour of adjusting the government's commitments around Junction 7 and working on 7A shows there is a strong case for considering flexibility."

The letter continued to say the £34million pledged would not be sufficient to cover improvements to Junction 7 and also deliver 7A.

The controversial new M11 link - Junction 7A - would transform Gilden Way into a busy three-lane bypass, despite protests from residents who fear

Threatening tweet to MP earns man £700 bill

A STUDENT has been spared a prison sentence after admitting sending a threatening tweet to Harlow MP Robert Halfon.

Just one week after MP Jo Cox was fatally shot and stabbed, Kier Ashby, 21, of Rushes Mead, Harlow, wrote: "I'd love to shoot Robert Halfon in the head with a gun!!!" on Twitter.

The tweet was posted on June 23, the night of the EU Referendum.

Ashby was sentenced at Chelmsford Magistrates Court yesterday (Wednesday) after pleading guilty. He was given a four-week jail sentence, suspended for 12 months, and ordered to carry out 120 hours of unpaid work. The university student was also ordered to pay £500 compensation to Mr Halfon for his "mental anxiety", as well as £85 costs and £115 victim surcharge.

Distress

Jerry Batchelor, chairman of the bench, said: "The language you used was extreme and would have caused him significant alarm and distress, particularly because of the shooting of another MP in the head a week or so before."

"Mr Halfon has certain vulnerabilities. But we take into account your guilty plea, and that you sent a retraction tweet." Prosecutor Denise Holland said: "It was late at night, he [Mr Halfon] was exhausted. It followed the shooting of MP Jo Cox. Mr Halfon felt threatened and freaked out."

"He's unable to walk unaided and if someone attacked him he wouldn't be able to get away. He checked the locks at his home."

Ashby told the court he had been at home drinking and regretted sending the message.

He said: "I wasn't being serious. I wanted some reaction. I wouldn't send it again."

Surgery given donation by friends group

A PAIR of nebulisers have been donated to a Harlow surgery by friendship group the Oddfellows.

The Ross Practice in Bush Fair was given two devices which help people who would otherwise struggle to take their medication. It does this by changing liquid medicine into a fine mist which is then inhaled through a mask or mouth piece.

On average each nebuliser costs around £45 and a further two will be given to St Clare Hospice by the group.

Ross Practice offers an array of medical services from a doctor's surgery and dental practice to repeat prescriptions and online medical advice.

Friendship group Oddfellows has been running for more than 200 years, offering members healthcare advice as well as being known for their social events.

Judge criticises CPS and police in speech

QC concedes both had 'impossible and thankless task'

Sinead Holland

sinead.holland@hertsexnews.co.uk

A JUDGE at Chelmsford Crown Court used his retirement speech to slam the Crown Prosecution Service and police.

In his farewell from the bench, Judge Christopher Ball QC, who for 15 years has been sentencing Essex criminals and wrong-doers, accused the CPS of making "daft" decisions and said their charging lawyers "don't have sufficient brain cells to understand all the dynamics of the criminal trial".

And rounding on the police, the judge said that except for high-profile cases, they had "almost completely disengaged from the trial process".

He conceded that the police and CPS had "an almost impossible and certainly thankless task".

And he accepted that the CPS was SPEECH: Judge Christopher Ball QC suffering enormous financial pressures and loss of manpower.

But the judge said their presence in court had "almost disappeared".

He continued: "It's a matter of regret that the CPS are not present in court because how will they truly appreciate the skill of the advocate, who are the good advocates, who present skilled arguments, who are on top of their case?"

"Worse than that, they invest the decision-making in so many difficult cases to people who have practically no experience of the criminal trial.

Unacceptable

"Time and again we find unacceptable pleas being accepted because they don't understand how juries would love to convict burglars who are seen driving away from a house that has just been entered, car keys stolen, the car driven away and they are stopped 100 yards down the road and the CPS think to accept 'handling stolen goods'. It's a matter of some regret."

Judge Ball added: "They don't have sufficient brain cells to understand all the dynamics of the criminal trial, and if only some of their lawyers, those responsible for charging decisions, had the experience, we would not have so many daft decisions being made."

Turning his attention to the police, he said that they had the hardest job of all, with their lives on the line every day.

But he said: "The police have almost completely disengaged from the trial process."

"Save for a few high-profile cases where there's a small team of dedicated officers, they don't come to court and if you don't come to court you don't learn what is required of you in your job and in your presentation of evidence."

"Both CPS and police have become obsessed with process when they ought to have a higher regard for proceedings in the court building."

Sweet friendly chap Toki is looking for his forever home

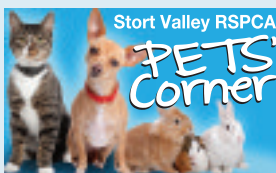

This is Toki. He came in to us from an inspector as his previous owners were no longer in a position to care for him and wanted us to find him a new home.

Toki is a very big handsome cat who just loves human attention. Toki's favourite thing is to be stroked under his chin and top of his head, and once you have started petting him, he won't let you stop.

He rubs against your legs then follows you every move until you give him another stroke.

Toki can be distracted by food and treats and, the first time he sees you in the morning he lets you know it's breakfast time by meowing and pawing at his bowl.

Toki is a very sweet little chap just looking for a loving new home, could it be yours?

We have had yet another cat come in requiring major surgery because of a collar injury. Judy has gone through the operation well but is looking at six weeks' cage rest with more than 300 stitches both internally and externally. We always advise people to not put collars on cats, especially as it gets warmer and cats tend to be out and about more. A microchip is the best form of identification for a cat.

We are very pleased to announce that we have been able to extend our veterinary clinic opening times.

We now have a vet clinic on Monday 10.30am-1.30pm, Thursday 10am-1pm and Fridays 10am-1pm. Our clinic offers subsidised veterinary treatment for people on a means-tested benefit who are unable to afford a private vet. We offer cat neutering vouchers for only £10.

For more information and tips please call the clinic on (01279) 306058.

Harlow's J7 funding to be diverted to M11 link noise and congestion. The plans have been subject of a public consultation which ended this month.

"This action by Robert Halfon is really against the interests of Harlow residents," said Labour county and district councillor Mike Danvers.

"It means all those thousands of motorists who struggle to navigate the M11 junction every day will have their misery indefinitely prolonged.

"It also flies in the face of open opposition to Junction 7A proposals by many thousands of residents."

The Government had already pledged £34million to improve Junction 7, the Hastingwood roundabout, through its First Road Investment Strategy (RIS).

Deal

Cllr Danvers added: "Normally Robert is a respected constituency MP, but in this case he seems to have made a backroom deal with a minister.

"Nothing should have been decided. They don't have a lot to do with it."

Essex County Council is still processing results of the consultation. If the new junction plans are given the green light, a new roundabout will be built for when the motorway link is completed in 2021.

Mr Halfon insisted the letter did not show that anything is decided and that the public consultation would have an important bearing on the outcome.

"This is just a letter of direction," he said. "Nothing will happen until the questions have been answered.

"Even then it has to go before the highways authority. It is miles and miles away from actually happening."

A 71 per cent rise in traffic is expected along the route, while there will be improvements made to footpaths, street lighting and pedestrian crossings.

Tory MP Mr Halfon said the £34million could possibly be split between junctions 7 and 7A.

He added: "We are going to have a new government this week so it could all change anyway.

"It is not concrete."

Dog owners told their pets are still under tick threat

Killer condition has not gone away, says vet

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A SENIOR vet has warned a killer disease found in Harlow is still a threat to pets and owners should take precautions.

Clive Swainsbury, practice partner at Forest Veterinary Centre group, made the comments after it was revealed that there have been no new cases of Babesia canis since April.

He said: "My expectation is that we will get a lot more cases.

"The reason is that the ticks will be renewing their life cycles and they lay about two thousand eggs.

"It is an ongoing situation.

"The ticks are still there and they are going to breed.

"The council has done a wonderful job and (the precautions) have helped quite a bit.

"But there is nothing we can do. The ticks are going to spread."

Fields between Second/Third Avenue and Tendring Road, in Harlow, were fenced off by Harlow Council in March after tests revealed a hotbed of ticks spreading Babesia canis.

Lives

The disease has already led to the death of one dog and nearly claimed the lives of several others.

Mr Swainsbury added: "Eventually this could affect the whole of the country. Nobody knows.

"The ticks are still there, they could even multiply."

After advising dog walkers to avoid the green areas Harlow Council confirmed this week that the fence would be stay for the time being and the situation will be reviewed next month.

A large amount of media attention followed the outbreak and the tick disease was the subject of a feature on BBC 1 programme The One Show on Tuesday.

Previously presenter Chris Packham highlighted the issue on a BBC News broadcast.

Mr Swainsbury raised the alert in February about the possible finding of Babesia canis, which was later confirmed when Public Health England and Animal and Plant Health Agency completed tests.

Symptoms displayed by animals include: lethargy, weakness, pale gums, red or brown urine and fever.

There is no vaccine available in the UK and vets sometimes need to complete an emergency blood transfusion to treat the potentially fatal disease.

Babesia canis can be prevented by regularly applying anti-tick treatment to dogs and also checking fur for ticks, which can transfer when the animals pass through long grass.

Harlow Council leader Jon Clempner said: "The council remains vigilant and continues to take advice from scientists and experts and work with organisations to monitor tick activity in this area.

"The fence will remain in place for now and the situation will be reviewed again in August when the council will look at whether it needs to consider any other measures," he added.

Thanks for those who came to help

SIR, I am writing this to thank the kind people who came to my 82-year-old husband's aid when he tripped over at the Peterswood bus stop on Monday, July 4.

The lady driver of the number 2 Arriva bus and the delivery driver from Tutnells who administered first aid and called an ambulance and then both stayed with my husband for well over an hour until I got home.

I would also like to thank the three other people at the bus stop who also helped.

Fortunately he only received minor injuries to his head and was seen promptly in A&E and discharged.

Thank you all once again.

What a mess the town looks now

SIR, I am writing to say what a mess Harlow looks now, with no grass being cut all around the town, only the edges.

At the back of where I live children used to be able to play all sorts of games. My own grandchildren used to enjoy going out there.

It's called a meadow now, because no one cuts the grass. It's a complete mess and loads of people say the same.

I have three grandchildren and I can't take them out there.

Name and address supplied

Sad grandchildren won't get chance

SIR, Last week's three contributors to the Letters Page on the subject of the referendum were remarkably assertive, considering the closeness of the vote, the splitting of the population into two camps, the collapse of confidence in markets worldwide, the five-fold increase in racist incidents since the result and the likely defection of Scotland from the UK.

Many voted for Leave in areas of the country heavily subsidised by European money in the belief that the government would take over this subsidy.

They know now that this isn't going to happen. People have said that the consequences of a leave vote were not explained to them: all the facts were there, but they were called 'fearmongering' by the Leavers. One side spoke the truth (sometimes exaggerated). The other side called them liars.

My reasons for supporting Remain are not basically economic.

I am old enough to have been at primary school in 1945.

READER'S PHOTO

■ Star reader John Curry took the two 'handkerchief trees' at St Paul's church in the town centre. They were planted by the Queen & Prince Philip in 1957, and are currently in bloom and it is quite clear how they got their nickname. If you have a photograph you have taken in or around Harlow which you would like to be featured in the Star, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address.

The spectacle of the concentration camps, the thousands of displaced people all over Europe, devastated industries, ruined cities, ruined lives, made Europeans decide 'never again'.

Although the EU is far from ideal – it is bureaucratic, wasteful and unforgiving of Southern European countries who failed to be successful – it is still our best chance of preserving peace and justice in the region.

I am very sad that my grandchildren will not have the chances of my generation, and horrified at the spectacle of Britain turning in on itself in a mean-spirited and toxic self-righteous 'patriotism'.

Barbara Burge
Seeleys, Old Harlow

Referendum has no force in law

SIR, Are you regretting? Did you vote leave and now regret it?

Well, don't despair because a survey by Opinion shows up to seven per cent of those who voted Leave as a protest now don't actually want the UK to break from the EU.

The referendum was only advisory, and has no force in law. Despite David Cameron's promise that he would trigger the leave process the next day should Leave win, he didn't. Was that just another broken promise?

No. He knows from the geographical distribution of the vote that triggering Article 50 of the Lisbon Treaty would inevitably lead to the break up of the UK.

We remain a member of the EU and will continue to do so because no Prime Minister of Her Majesty's Government will preside over legislation resulting in the destruction of the country over which he or she claims to govern.

So thank you Scotland, Northern Ireland, and London for having the good sense to vote remain. Second referendum anyone?

PS This is not a letter from a bad loser – we haven't lost!

Stephen Archer
Old Orchard, Harlow

Blame lies with the Conservatives

SIR, Some people in Harlow will have voted for withdrawal from the European Union in the expectation that leaving would mean more cash for the National Health Service.

However, leaders of the Leave campaign admitted within hours of the declaration of the referendum result that there will not be any increase in its budget.

This is bad news for those of us unable to afford private medical treatment, because the NHS is in dire need of more money.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon is a member of a Conservative government that is not only starving the NHS of funds, but also reducing the effectiveness of the funds that are available by requiring the NHS to commission some services from private healthcare companies.

National Health Service bureaucrats are now refusing to allow routine operations to be performed, in order to save money.

Patients with everyday medical conditions such as hernias or cataracts can no longer rely on the National Health Service to treat them. Your doctor may refer you to a hospital for an operation, but it will be the local Clinical Commissioning Group that will decide if you are allowed to have it.

Even more cuts are in prospect as the government implements its new local Sustainability and Transformation Plans, under which the number of full Accident and Emergency hospitals in England will be reduced from 140 in 2013 to a total of between 40 and 70.

The European Union was not responsible for the current decline in the National Health Service, and it was not caused by immigration.

The blame lies with the Conservative government of the United Kingdom. Harlow's Robert Halfon and his Conservative colleagues in the House of Commons have discarded the fundamental philosophical basis of the NHS, which was that it should provide free care to all those in need.

John Wake
Address supplied

Can someone explain why?

SIR, Essex County Council and indeed Harlow Council have in the past, rightly championed nature, advising residents what they can do to protect the environment and encourage life back into our gardens.

How joyous it was on a recent trip to the refuse centre, to see the fenced off and unused plot of land outside the tip (hardly the most natural environment) full of wild flowers, including bright red poppies; the area was teeming with life.

Sadly, the following week was not such a pleasant trip. The entire area had been mown down, leaving a barren and still unused area outside, one that is now ripe for dumping of rubbish in.

Why oh why would you destroy the environment on one hand whilst championing its cause with another? Harlow Council, please explain.

John Connolly
Home Close, Harlow

Major data error in consultation

SIR, While filling in the online response form for the junction 7A consultation I noticed a major error in the numerical data on the online response form concerning the increase in traffic along Gilden Way.

It gives the projected increase in traffic as 41 per cent whereas it should be 71 per cent. This will mislead people completing the form into thinking the impact will be a lot less than it is actually projected to be.

This looks like underhand tactics of the worst kind.

The same data is given on pages 22/23 of the printed consultation document where for Ref 9, it is correctly shown as 71 per cent.

Derived from a projected increase from 17,700 to 30,200.

GEARING UP: Graham Ellis takes a moment for a photograph on his ride from Ireland to Norfolk

Grandad cycles 450 miles for 36th fundraiser

Graham, 66, hopes to raise £5,000

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE width of the British Isles was no match for veteran fundraiser Graham Ellis who cycled 450 miles for charity.

The 66-year-old, who lives in Elmbridge, Old Harlow, said he was shattered when he reached Sheringham in Norfolk nine days after riding off from Galway Bay, Ireland.

However, the painful miles up Welsh mountains and along English highways were worth the effort for the chartered surveyor who has raised £2,219.01 for London's Great Ormond Street Hospital.

"It was really good and we were lucky with the weather," said Graham, who has received a British Empire Medal for completing an fundraiser every year since 1981.

"We had nice weather and only one wet day compared with what we saw you had to put up with while we were away."

"Ireland was beautiful and it was fairly flat."

Graham had a daily routine of leaving around 8am or 9am in the morning and riding to his hotel the other end, which could sometimes be up to 120km east.

His wife Sandra was on domestic duty by providing moral support at the beginning and the end of the day while also transporting her husband's supplies.

Snowdonia

"The mountains of Wales were the hardest, around Snowdonia," continued Graham.

"I could not make too much progress there. But the rest of it was all right," he added.

An unexpected highlight of the tour was when he met a lieutenant colonel in Ireland who later introduced Graham to the country's ambassador. The pair chatted about Graham's fundraising.

Over 36 years of pushing himself to the limit in the name of charity, Graham has scaled Machu Picchu, trekked 100km across the Sahara Desert, completed the Three Peaks Challenge and has run the London Marathon twice.

Last year he rode nearly 3,000 miles from San Diego to Florida, across the United States.

He has now returned home to join Sandra, with whom he has three children.

Graham is a grandfather to five with one more on the way. His 15-year-old grandson, Georgie Ellis, recently won the ABA English boxing title.

He added: "It is nice to be back but I have got some nice memories and everyone, along the way, was fantastic."

But after his latest challenge Graham has no plans to retire.

"I have a couple of ideas for next year," he said.

"I am interested in cycling from Harlow to Barcelona."

Graham is short of his £5,000 fundraising target and is still taking donations. To sponsor his ride visit www.justgiving.com/fundraising/Graham-Ellis8.

County Hall to review mental health care

PLEA: Tom Nutt

MENTAL health services for young people are under review from Essex County Council.

County Hall is asking residents to share their experiences of how easy and accessible the services are, as they gather evidence for a review.

The consultation has been prompted by the publication of Healthwatch Essex's YEAH! 2 report, which outlines young people's views on their experience of mental health services.

Dr Tom Nutt, chief executive of Healthwatch Essex, said: "We have looked at the experience of young people and have been engaging with more than 800 of them - really getting into the detail of what works for them and where services don't align with their needs or expectations."

Feedback should relate to experiences within the past six months and focus on accessibility, signposting and how well services met the needs of children and young people.

Anyone wishing to contribute can email at scrutiny@essex.gov.uk by tomorrow.

Call for Central Line services to be extended to Ongar again

Mayor of London says he is happy in principle for feasibility to be investigated

Simon Murfitt

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ONGAR station could be reconnected to the London Underground after the idea was put to the Mayor of London.

The town has been without a link to the city since Central Line trains stopped running there in 1994.

But at the Mayor's Question Time on June 22, London Assembly member Tom Copley put the question: "Will you ask Transport for London (TfL) to conduct a feasibility study and negotiate with Essex County Council into running the Central Line out to Ongar again, considering the line remains intact and that there is new development there?"

Answer

Last week he received the answer from London Mayor Sadiq Khan.

He said: "TfL would be happy to co-operate with Essex County Council or others who wish to consider the likely demand for this service and the feasibility of this suggestion in more detail."

The London Underground stations at both Ongar and North Weald closed after transport

bosses deemed the Epping to Ongar branch was not used enough to make it profitable.

But Fyfield Road resident Paul Mendel said the community needed a railway station due to the amount of development since it closed.

"I don't know whether it is as simple as bringing it back or if it will need a multimillion pound investment," he said.

"But of course the community needs it, with the building of the school and all the potential development."

"I think Ongar needs it, it would help with the people coming out of Ongar."

"It would make it easier for young people who want to work in London."

"The children who are 16 and 17 now who want to go out and have experiences and do work experience are isolated in this town without a train station."

However, he added: "The only issue is that there are no police now and would that make it easier for people to come into the town and commit burglaries?"

There have already been calls for a return of Tube services to Ongar.

In 2010, 2,500 people joined a campaign group on Facebook called Put Ongar back on the Central Line but TfL rebuffed the idea.

In 2008, teenager Stewart Cunningham launched a petition calling for the same thing.

In April last year it was reported how Epping Ongar Railway, which owns the station, had extended its running track to within 100m of Epping Station.

It remains the heritage railway's ambition to have a link with the last station on the Central Line.

Dean Walton, business development manager, said: "We're always happy to talk to our partners in relation to the future."

"Our ambition is to establish a viable and attractive interchange both for visitors and local people to use our services."

Campaign to stop people falling victim to scams

CITIZENS Advice and Trading Standards have joined forces this month to launch the national Scams Awareness Month (SAM16) to help prevent people falling prey to scams.

Essex residents are being encouraged to follow the three-step rule to one, get advice, two, report it and three, tell others about it.

The internet has made many people's lives easier but it also contains a lot of misinformation and opportunists looking to con people out of money.

Common online scams include payment card scams, where card details are cloned or stolen and used by third parties; fake goods scams, where consumers buy products (such as event tickets, goods or services) that do not exist; and dating scams, where scammers begin a fake online relationship with the victim to con them out of money.

If you are concerned that a member of your family, friend or neighbour has been the victim of a scam, you can report it by calling 03454 040506.

Tell your stories of New Town life at exhibition

Organiser hopes event will give a voice to those who live there

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A ONE day public conference is aiming to celebrate new towns as being more than their negative image would suggest.

Residents of Harlow are invited to Stevenage to share good, bad and quirky stories of growing up in a new town on Saturday, July 30, the anniversary of the 1946 New Town Act.

The Recommission for New Towns is a unique event to mark the act's 70th birthday. Harlow's history is set to feature among the talks from historians, economists and artists at the event held in Stevenage Museum from 10am to 5pm.

Jonny Maftin, 34, the event organiser from Bethnal Green, said: "A lot has been

LISTENING: Jonny Maftin has organised the event in Stevenage written about the history of post-war new towns but often the experiences of people who actually lived and live in them get ignored.

Walking and cycling tours of Stevenage will also be on offer and tickets are £5 to cover the costs of the event.

Mr Maftin added: "New towns tend to get a pretty bad press, but a lot of it is based on clichés."

Radical

"A different view is of new towns as radical places, with a history of pioneering residents who made brave moves and took on the challenge of new homes, gardens and communities."

"We want to hear from all new town residents who feel they have a story to tell – good or bad."

The conference will bring together other new towns such as Basildon, Hatfield, Crawley and Stevenage, which were also built after the Second World War to meet a population surplus.

A feature of all these towns is that houses were built with front and back gardens and towns were close to the countryside with easy to navigate roads and jobs in skilled industries.

Historian Owen Hatherley said: "New towns are as complex by now as many already existing towns, and they've faced very different fates over the half-century or more since their foundation."

"The big secret about New Towns, however, despite their apparently poor public reputation, is that they were very popular."

"They seem oddly neglected in the current wave of nostalgia for post-war architecture."

TOP TIPS: Two residents get advice from a stallholder at the event at Harlow Fire Station on Saturday

Support for older community at station

HARLOW Fire Station hosted a special open day on Saturday to give advice to people about growing old safely.

Firefighters were joined by representatives from around 20 organisations, including other emergency services, health care providers and community groups.

The event provided firefighters with an opportunity to talk to residents about how they can stay safe in their homes especially as they get older.

The other agencies provided information about health care, wellbeing, social care and crime prevention advice.

Harlow firefighter Jo Taylor said: "I am so pleased we managed to get so many partner agencies together at one event with the joint aim of making our communities safer."

"Our station has already been involved in several projects under the Delivering Differently in Neighbourhoods programme, and this one was aimed at helping some of our most vulnerable members of our community."

"As well as all the people we were able to give advice to, it was also a brilliant opportunity for all the different agencies to understand how our fire service can support the community in more ways than just putting out fires."

"I want to thank each and every organisation for coming to our event and I would also like to thank my watch and other members of the service who helped out on the day."

Cops arrest 197 drivers in summer crackdown

A TOTAL of 197 drivers were arrested during Essex Police summer anti-drink and drug driving campaign.

This year's campaign ran between June 10 and July 10 to coincide with UEFA Euro 2016 tournament.

Of the 197 arrested during the campaign, 168 were men and 29 were women. Some 40 people - 37 men and three women - were arrested on suspicion of drug driving and 10 - eight men and two women - were arrested on suspicion of failing to provide a specimen of breath or blood for analysis.

During last year's summer campaign, a total of 102 drivers were arrested.

Adam Pipe, Casualty Reduction Manager at Essex Police, said: "I hope the number of arrests made during the campaign serve as a wake-up call. Our officers are out there 24 hours a day 365 days a year. If you drink or drug drive, it's only a matter of time before you're caught and put before the courts."

Nicola Foster, chairman of the Safer Essex Roads Partnership added: "These results show that drink and drug driving is still an issue on Essex roads. We as SERP will continue to tackle drink and drug driving through enforcement and education. We continue to urge anyone not to drink and drug drive."

Firm to investigate supermarket shuttle

Bus company chiefs fielded questions from town MP

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

GRIEVANCES about Harlow bus routes and facilities were put to Arriva chiefs by town MP Robert Halfon.

A lack of routes, damaging potholes and poor accessibility were all concerns voiced by residents before the meeting.

Mr Halfon said the discussion had been productive and he had stated the case for a new shuttle bus service between Sainsbury's and the town centre.

"Following the loss of a number of services there has been a large strain on Arriva who has had to take up extra routes, and increased volume of traffic in the town," said the MP.

"This makes timetabling difficult for bus companies, leading to late services."

Arriva said routes 4 and 5 no longer served Harlow Town Station due to under-use. Meanwhile, Essex County Council will be notified about potholes in the bus garage which is damaging vehicles, and causing the money to not be spent elsewhere.

Arriva also pledged to look into how new fleets of buses could be better equipped to meet needs of

CONCERN: Robert Halfon meets residents and representatives from Arriva buses disabled and blind residents.

Mr Halfon added: "It is very pleasing to hear that Arriva will be taking on some of the comments raised during our session."

"As the major bus operator in the town it is paramount that passengers are able to get the best service possible for the best price."

Passengers of Harlow buses shared their views on the Star's Facebook page.

Gary Tubb wrote: "There is no number 5 after 6pm now, during the day we only get one number 5 every 30 minutes. Before the changes I used to get the number 2 from Harlow Town station to my door, now I can't even do that."

Susan Phillips added: "As for paying £1.80 for a child is a joke as in London you don't pay for children until they are 16."

Veronica Kendall wrote: "My bus service is great, Purford Green to town centre every 10 to 15 minutes."

Annie Lang commented: "Nothing will be done."

In brief

Business confidence

EAST: New figures have revealed that more than 5,000 new businesses have been launched in the East of England since 2011.

Ministers have praised the Government's New Enterprise Allowance which they claim has funded 5,860 start-ups in five years.

The NEA allows jobseekers, who want to start their own firm, to access funding and advice about how to get started.

Priti Patel, Minister of State for Employment, said: "The NEA has given people the confidence to secure their own financial future and move off benefits."

Charity worker gong

HARLOW: A charity worker was honoured for his specialist work in supporting families in West Essex.

Tom Burke, 51, who works for Action for Children, has helped reduce the number of children taken into care in Harlow's region through their Multi-systemic Therapy programme.

As part of Action for Children he has helped provide round the clock support to families.

Mr Burke was presented with the award in a ceremony in the Essex County Council offices.

Anniversary event

HARLOW: Go and celebrate Pets' Corner's 50th Anniversary Year on Sunday, July 31.

The event will have lots to entertain and take part in and around the popular Harlow Town Park attraction.

The celebrations will run from 11am to 5pm.

Inspectors find improvements with the police

Force previously graded 'inadequate'

Sinead Holland

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ESSEX Police has "improved markedly" in its protection of the county's most vulnerable people, according to a new inspection report.

In December last year, the force was one of four in the country which HM Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC) graded as inadequate.

Inspector Zoe Billingham had significant concerns about the capability of Essex Police to protect vulnerable people from harm and support victims. In particular HMIC found serious weaknesses in the force's arrangements to safeguard and investigate cases involving vulnerable people; and the force's response to victims of domestic abuse was poor.

In March this year, Ms Billingham was back to review progress and found "a change of mindset and approach to vulnerability among staff, now putting children and vulnerable people at the centre of everything".

The force has also improved its response to domestic abuse and child sexual exploitation (CSE).

Ms Billingham said: "The chief officer team and senior leaders have demonstrated a good understanding of the issues HMIC raised, and have worked hard to change the mind set of frontline officers and staff, so that vulnerable people and children are now at the centre of all they do."

"This commitment is not just shown at senior level. Frontline officers and staff have also worked hard to improve the service they provide to vulnerable people, particularly victims of domestic abuse and children."

"The force has improved its response to victims of domestic abuse, with frontline officers and staff now understanding more clearly their safeguarding responsibilities. The force also now has processes in place to properly manage outstanding domestic abuse perpetrators, which was previously lacking and potentially putting victims at risk."

"These improvements are extremely encouraging, and the force must now ensure progress continues so that those in greatest need receive the police's full protection and support."

Chief Constable Stephen Kavanagh said: "When inspectors came into the force last summer they saw processes that weren't yet bedded in and a culture change across the force that was still taking root."

"That change has not come easy. Essex Police is one of the poorest funded forces in the country but few forces have invested or prioritised more in dealing with these issues."

"People in Essex who really need us can have confidence in the recognition by inspectors that we now have effective and reliable processes in place to respond to and safeguard victims. Officers and staff are working as hard as possible in a world of ever increasing demand."

A ROYAL WELCOME: HM King Kigeli at Brentwood County High School also visited Harlow

King who fled war visits training centre

RWANDA'S last monarch was the unlikely guest at Delight Education Services as he visited the county for an Essex TV documentary.

HM King Kigeli dropped in on the training centre at the Latton Bush Centre in Southern Way, Harlow.

The 80-year-old now resides in America, having fled the war-torn country following a coup in 1961. The king, who stands at 7ft 2in, now performs charity and civic roles around the world. Essex TV will release the documentary on August 28.

King Kigeli was also filmed visiting a hotel in Southend and a school in Brentwood.

Jay Conner, lead producer for Essex TV, said: "It was very exciting for us to have been involved in a project of such high magnitude and very clear importance."

"Me and the rest of the team are very humbled by this opportunity and we endeavour to make it a very exciting documentary to watch."

The online channel went live in April and the visit of King Kigeli is a big coup for founder and Harlow resident Matthew Martino, 23.

He said: "It's very flattering and humbling to have been given this opportunity."

St Clare volunteer Jill Talbot has been honoured with League of Mercy award

It's good to give time to charity

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

ONE of St Clare Hospice's long-standing volunteers has been honoured with a League of Mercy award.

Jill Talbot, 72, who is part of the 550-strong hospice volunteer team, was put forward for the award by the Hastingwood-based charity to honour her 13 years of service.

Jill, who lives in Harlow, has held a number of volunteer roles during this time, including as a receptionist and an HR assistant.

Like many volunteers at St Clare, Jill began helping after a personal experience. The hospice cared for Jill's husband, Ray, before he passed away in December 2002.

"Ray and I met each other when we were both working at the Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow," explained Jill.

"I was a dietitian and Ray worked in the sterile services department and we were married in 1970.

"Unfortunately, Ray was diagnosed with bowel cancer in 1998 and after several rounds of treatment we were told that there was nothing more the hospital could do for him.

"That was when we first came in contact with St Clare and it was such a support to us."

Ray attended day therapy for several months which helped Jill as well as her husband.

"Coming to St Clare really helped both of us to get through a very tough time."

Jill explained. "I think it's good for the person who is going through the illness to have some space, as well as the person who is looking after them.

"Ray used to really look forward to coming to day therapy every week – he enjoyed chatting to people and the activities that they did. I felt happy because I knew Ray was in a place of safety and was being well looked after."

Ray also had several stays on the inpatient unit during 2002 to help with pain control.

Jill added: "The nursing and medical care, and the support given to both of us by other members of staff, was excellent – you couldn't fault it."

"Ray was more than happy to come in to St Clare – which speaks for itself really – he thought of it as a little holiday."

Ray passed away in December 2002 aged 54 years old. A year later Jill decided to start volunteering with St Clare as a way of giving back to the charity.

She said: "Like many of the volunteers at St Clare there are personal reasons why I have chosen to help the hospice."

"Not only this but volunteering is enjoyable for the volunteer themselves – otherwise they wouldn't do it."

"I think it's good to give your time to a local charity, and an organisation that helps so many people."

Jill was presented with the award at a ceremony on Monday, July 4 at The Mansion House in London by the President of the League of Mercy, Lord Lingfield.

On receiving the award Jill said: "When I received the letter about the award I had to read it twice because I couldn't quite believe it!"

"There are so many deserving volunteers at St Clare and I wondered why I had been singled out for such a prestigious award. I feel very humbled because all the volunteers work so hard and give up their time."

"I feel like it is an award for the whole of St Clare and all the staff and volunteers – not just for me. It is lovely for the hospice to gain this national recognition."

The League of Mercy Foundation was founded in 1899 by Royal Charter of Queen Victoria and awards are made in recognition of volunteers who assist in the caring services.

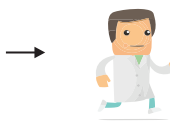

Twenty-nine awards were presented this year a ceremony at The Mansion House.

Animal magic as youngsters dress up and go on safari as part of Big Toddle

CHILDREN turned their Harlow primary school into a safari park to raise more than £500 for charity.

As part of the Big Toddle initiative, youngsters aged five and under at The Downs Primary and Nursery School, in The Hides, held the fun day in aid of Barnardo's.

Pupils dressed up in animal fancy dress and went with their parents or carers on a safari around the school grounds looking for animals hiding in the trees.

They completed other wild tasks and challenges along the way.

The Big Toddle is a national fundraising event to support the work of children's charity Barnardo's. Schools can subscribe into a package to hold a fun and educational event.

GO WILD: Youngsters at The Downs in their colourful costumes

Cat McCabe, nursery class teacher, said: "We had a target of £150. However, as the money has still been coming in over the last week, I am pleased to say we have smashed it.

"With money still to come in, we have raised more than £500."

Activities help students to find careers

YEAR 10 students at Sir Charles Kao UTC enjoyed a day of activities that focused on their future careers.

Through short workshops held by different organisations the 14 and 15-year-olds at the Harlow technical college focused on ways to increase their employability.

Representatives from organisations such as Raytheon, Public Health England and IT Vet came to the Velizy Avenue centre to be grilled by aspiring teenagers.

Joshua, a student in Year 10 at the UTC, said: "I quite enjoyed the day as it gave me a good insight into the job branches I could follow. I particularly enjoyed learning about what employees do and the tasks they complete every day."

To end the event, students participated in a question and answer session with Robert Halfon.

The Harlow MP discussed the town's future developments such as the Enterprise Zone and Public Health England science hub. As the UTC provides specialist training in science subjects it is hoped students will be in a good position to further their careers at these projects.

Mike McKeaveney, the college principal, added: "At Sir Charles Kao UTC, we pride ourselves in employer links, ensuring our students are prepared for their futures in the working world and life in modern Britain."

"The confidence and knowledge displayed by our students at this event shows clearly that our students are already on track with planning their future through the unique partnerships we have with local and national employers."

"Thank you to all the volunteers who participated in the day and helped make it a huge success."

School link with China is full of Eastern promise

Primary welcomes pupils from Jiangsu

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW school is among 11 teaming up with their counterparts from China as part of a project that aims to further enhance Essex's international links and develop much-needed skills.

Over the past 27 years, Essex County Council has developed a close relationship with Jiangsu Province in China, working in areas such as education, culture, sport, trade, investment, science and technology.

Artwork

The county council and the Essex-Jiangsu Centre for Chinese Studies have already helped 117 schools across Greater Essex develop links with Jiangsu schools, with many taking part in exchange visits, joint curriculum projects, and exchanging letters and artwork.

The partnership has also helped promote the teaching and

VISITORS: Chinese pupils who have come to Essex on exchange learning of Mandarin and Chinese culture in Essex.

The Essex - Jiangsu STEM (science, technology, engineering, mathematics) School Partnerships Programme is among the latest projects schools have been taking part in.

The programme has culminated in a school partnership exchange visit, with seven Jiangsu schools currently in Essex visiting the county's schools. They include Fawbert and Barnard's Primary School in Harlow.

Pupils from Jiangsu were welcomed to the county at a launch event at Anglia Ruskin University in Chelmsford on Thursday, July 7.

Four Jiangsu schools and 11 Greater Essex schools also took part in a Bloodhound school rocket car challenge, organised by the Essex Employment and Skills Board. Several of the Essex schools have arranged visits to Jiangsu in October.

Science

Cllr Ray Gooding, Essex County Council's cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said: "International education partnerships such as this are not only beneficial in improving the teaching and learning of key subjects such as science, technology, engineering and maths, but also encourage pupils to have a wider global outlook and improve their language skills."

"I hope those involved in this project enjoy the exchange visits and embrace this fantastic opportunity to further their education."

Swimming centipede

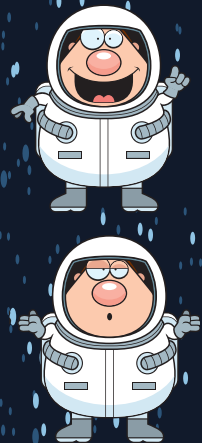

A new species of venomous centipede has been discovered in Thailand – and it can swim.

It belongs to a group of giant centipedes called Scolopendra and can grow up to 20 centimetres long. This is the first known species of centipede that can swim and dive in water.

However, at first scientists confused it with a different species of centipede, so it was forgotten about for many years.

All centipedes are venomous and a bite from this one would be very painful, but thankfully they only live in south-east Asia.

1st Anniversary

Wonderful Husband and Father to John, Janet and David and Grandfather. Sadly missed by all of your family, Sister Betty and Sisters in Law.

We miss your stately and regal presence. We love you to infinity. Intangible sadness.

Poem by Janet Evans (Brittan)
Dad

You never looked for praises,
You were never one to boast.
You just went on quietly working,
For the ones that you loved the most.

Your dreams were seldom spoken,
Your wants were very few,
And most of the time your worries
Went unsaid too.

You are our foundation,
A sentinel, a guide,
And you leave a pain that can't be spoken,
But hearts that swell with pride.

A gentle Man at heart,
with knowledge so informed,
We know now the sun and sky,
Is where your wondrous
Soul will be warmed.

WHAT'S ON

THE LOUNGE - BY INSPECTOR SANDS

Harlow Playhouse

Thursday, July 21 and Friday, July 22 (2.30pm/7.30pm) Pay What You Can

In a care home lounge, Marsha begins the last day of her life. She cannot go quietly. As radiators burn and Jeremy Kyle blares, rivalries and relatives jostle for space on the Axminster carpet. Packed with witty observations, this mesmerising new show shines a light on how we cope, or don't cope, with ageing.

TOM-FOOLERY

Harlow Playhouse - Studio

Saturday, July 23 (1.30pm/3.30pm) £12.50/£10.50 concessions

Join the hilarious Tom Swift (his mother's words), as he embarks on a journey of magic and comedy that will appeal to all the family. Tom doesn't have many friends so this is the perfect opportunity for him to meet people. His pet hates are crowds and Dolphin tattoos. He regrets his. Known in these parts for his Panto antics and occasional shop lifting (he was hungry), Tom now brings you his first one man show. Book tickets now to avoid disappointment (Tom's disappointment).

CHAPLIN: THE CHARLIE CHAPLIN STORY

Harlow Playhouse - main auditorium

Saturday, July 23 (7.30pm) £16.50-£19.50

The Charlie Chaplin Story is a heart warming and hilarious musical about Chaplin's journey from Victorian London to the glitz of early Hollywood. An untold story too fascinating to be missed. Featuring an all star West End cast including Steven Arnold (Ashley Peacock in Coronation Street) Rachael Wood (Emmerdale), and a full array of amazing actor-Musicians

Dancers' tribute to the King of Pop

TRIBUTE: Hip Hop Pop touchdown in Johannesburg

The spirit of the King of Pop lives on thanks to a professional dance troupe that has just returned from South Africa.

Forever Jackson is a collection of dancers dedicated to the music of Michael Jackson and includes members from Hip Hop Pop who train and practise in Harlow Playhouse.

The group was commissioned to perform their show in Johannesburg in June and were grooving and moonwalking on evenings over three weeks.

Robin Parsons formed Forever Jackson in 2008 with several Hip Hop Pop members successfully auditioning for what was initially a group of five.

Hip Hip Pop proprietor Jenny Bate-Sinclair was part of the original group which has grown to now contain 19 who recently departed for South Africa.

"We are incredibly proud of all the work we have put in throughout the past seven years with Robin Parsons and Forever Jackson," said Jenny.

"In November 2015 we got news that we have been booked for three and a half week residency of performances with Forever Jackson in South Africa.

"It has certainly all paid off to be given such a fantastic opportunity to do what we are so passionate about in such an incredibly beautiful city."

Forever Jackson, who lay claim to be the best MJ tribute in the country, danced to the beat of the classic hits in the Joburg Theatre in Johannesburg, a 1,000 seater venue in the heart of the city.

Hip Hop Pop teaches street dance and hip hop moves on Mondays and Tuesdays for a mixture of ages in Harlow while there are also clubs in

DANCERS: Hip Hop Pop performed in South Africa

Refreshing version of a much-loved production

Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera Iolanthe will be reimagined on stage this weekend by Harlow Chorus.

Following on from recent successful renditions of Chilcott's Requiem and Handel's Messiah the choir are genre-hopping again by adapting the production originally performed in 1882.

Led by conductor Alexander Chaplin, the Chorus will sing at St Michael's Church in Windhill, in Bishop's Stortford on Saturday from 7.30pm.

Several of the 100 strong amateur choir will take solos while Susan Graham Smith will accompany on piano.

Throughout its 35 years of existence, Harlow Chorus has inspired and trained amateur singers to perform at the highest level alongside orchestras including the London Philharmonic.

The Chorus has also toured extensively abroad, visiting Belgium, South Africa and Ireland on their travels but while their latest production is closer to home it should be no less spectacular.

This, the seventh of 14 Gilbert and Sullivan operas, sees a young fairy called Iolanthe banished from her magical world after she marries a mortal. A romantic farce then plays out as Iolanthe's son Strephon then faces a battle to win the heart of Phyllis over all the members of the House of Lords.

While the plotline sounds closer to Peter Pan, the story is a parody of rigid British government, law and order.

Harlow Chorus will perform the memorable numbers from the opera which include: Good-morrow, Good Mother, Tripping Hither, Tripping Thither and None Shall Part Us from Each Other.

■ Tickets cost £15 full price, £13 for concessions and £5 for under 18s. For bookings and more information visit www.ticketsource.co.uk/harlowchorus.

'Hard to find fault with a brilliant performance'

"WHEN IT comes to mental health, be it good or bad, nothing is ever black and white". That was the first of many thoughts that were provoked as I sat down to enjoy the final performance of Moot House Players' production of Lucy Prebble's The Effect on Saturday. Staged in an environment where almost everything was visually black and white the dramatic contrast of the vivid and varied characters that graced the performance space was startling.

The play centres around two young drug-test volunteers, psychology student Connie (Abbie Middleton-Evans) and the easy come, easy go Tristan (Tyronne Samuels), and the two doctors played by Sarah Randall and James Miller, who are monitoring the effect of this experiment. As the dosage is increased, Connie and Tristan seemingly fall in love while struggling to work out whether their feelings are real or a side effect of the medication.

The intimacy and intensity displayed by Abbie and Tyronne was superb.

The programme and pre-publicity details how rehearsals had been about far more than line-learning and staging and the level of detail and understanding of the complexity of mental health and mental illness and how this manifests itself in the appearance, behaviour of individuals, relationships and dynamics was both funny and frighteningly true.

However, this was very much an ensemble piece and Sarah and James demonstrated sensitivity and versatility as the intellectual debate between the virtues of psychiatry and psychology gave way to the raw emotion and consequences of complex relationships.

Director Harry Tennison is 19 years old. I mention this in case it was something the audience of The Effect were unaware of.

The significance of this is two-fold: one, it demonstrates that this young man has acquired huge insight into life already, alongside the stagecraft, to draw on in performance creation, and two, it means, that hopefully we will see more of his work as he grows in stature.

It is hard to find fault in such a brilliant performance.

Yes, there were times when the volume levels of the performers dropped a bit low, but as the entranced audience sat in almost total silence save for appreciative applause, this mattered very little.

I'm still not sure if the coughing fit that Sarah Randall had in the second-half was part of the performance but if it wasn't, the fact that both she and Abbie ploughed ahead is just one example of the confidence and capability that Harry's cast exhibited during the evening.

Over the years the Moot House Players have been criticised for putting on productions that "weren't ready" for an audience.

The Effect in my opinion was ready for that and more and I'd gladly pay to see it again.

When does it go on tour Mr Tennison?

'It has got all the things people know and love from the movie'

Michael Kent could be a good luck charm to his West End productions with his last two shows, The Book Of Mormon and Matilda becoming smash hits.

However, it is more likely the success of the talented Harlow 28-year-old is no coincidence after learning his trade at the former Passmores School and Brenda Taylor School of Dance and Performing Arts.

His next role is Billy, "the one with the watermelons", in Dirty Dancing - The Classic Story On Stage, which is making its way around UK theatres this summer.

"It is going amazingly," said Michael, who is in the heat of rehearsing before the Dirty Dancing tour begins in Ostend in Belgium towards the end of July.

"I have had to learn a lot. It is a brand new production from a creative team. It is sexier with a brand new set."

The plot starts on an American campsite in the summer of 1963 and follows Frances 'Baby' Houseman who finds herself through dance under the tuition of love interest Johnny, played in the 1987 film by Patrick Swayze.

Michael plays Billy Kostecki, a wannabe who always finds himself in the shadow of Johnny, his cousin.

"Anyone who knows the film will know him as the guy with the watermelons," said Michael, without elaborating. "He wants to help and never succeeds. He is the underdog and thinks he is doing the right thing but it does not always work out for him."

FAMOUS FRIEND: Michael with Russell Brand after a Book of Mormon performance

"He is a trier," added Michael on the similarities between him and his character. "He looks up to Johnny and has a role model figure in his life."

Michael and his team have a tough act to follow with the new stage play succeeding a 2006 production which took a record £15m in pre-sale tickets before opening.

The show went on to make £500m worldwide and was seen by six million people.

Is Michael feeling the pressure? "Absolutely," he said. "Audiences have a fair idea of what they are getting and they come with expectations - they want to have a good time."

"The great thing with the show is that by transferring it to the stage we are able to involve the audience more. It's not just something they are watching on TV in two dimension. There is a scene where the audience are under a starry sky.

"But it has got all the things that people know and love from the movie."

Michael said original script writer Eleanor Bergstein is on board with the stage production and has been an experienced presence behind the scenes.

But while he couldn't miss the ubiquitous theme song (I've Had The Time Of My Life, he had not actually seen the film until last year.

"I saw it last year for the first time, but it's a classic," said Michael. "The budget for the film is actually less than the stage shows have been."

"(I've Had) The Time Of My Life was one of those songs I heard all the time growing up and to have the responsibility to perform that in front of the original script writer and audience is an honour."

"I have done a lot of stage before," he added, "I was in the Book of Mormon for two years which was an amazing experience. It broke a lot of records."

"Before that I was in Matilda. Obviously I watched South Park and to work with those creators (on the Book of Mormon) I was thinking to myself 'oh this is amazing'."

"We were part of something very special."

But before the West End lights beckoned, Michael was learning his craft at Passmores and Brenda Taylor School of Dance and Performing Arts - where another rising star Charlotte Spencer was a classmate.

"I could not have done it without having that sort of help," he said. "The arts is so important for so many things in life. It's something that should be given more focus in schools."

"I have always wanted to be on stage since the age of eight when I saw the pantomime at Harlow Playhouse in, I think, 1996 and it was Dick Whittington."

"I remember watching and thinking, 'I want to do that'. My dream was to be in one of the West End shows. I used to walk past the posters on the London Underground and think 'I want to be in that', but now I can look and say 'I have been in three of them'."

"It is a hard business, but there is nothing like it and I have met so many people I would never have met," said Michael who wheels off a list of A-list names, including Prince Harry and Arnold Schwarzenegger.

FRUITY: Michael with some large watermelons - in reference to his Dirty Dancing character Billy

"TV and film are fantastic but it is stop and start. But on stage you get that buzz and people will say well done for doing your job. Nothing betters that."

Michael, who is based in Covent Garden these days, says his ultimate goal is to perform in Broadway with a view to head stateside once he can sort out his visa - and of course finishes the Dirty Dancing tour.

But despite his increasing status Michael has not forgotten his roots and returns to Harlow a lot to visit family, and also lead guest sessions at the Brenda Taylor School.

"I like to go back," he said. "I am somebody's role model now, without blowing my own trumpet. I want to tell them to keep going and follow their dreams."

Small group to put on big performance

FIVE actors will play 70 characters as the Pantaloons Theatre Company races through The Canterbury Tales in less than two hours.

Geoffrey Chaucer's series of 24 plays will be given a fun and quirky condensing at Harlow Museum Walled Gardens on Thursday, August 25.

The play follows a group of pilgrims who decide to hold a story-telling contest with a diverse range of topics, characters and genres popping up.

Mark Hayward, producer and co-author, said: "It's all about being faithful to the original text whilst making it relevant to a modern audience."

"It's a tricky line to walk but as we were translating we realised that the key things were to keep it accessible and keep it funny."

"There are several tales that are like mini-plays in themselves," he added. "Famous ones like The Miller's Tale and The Wife of Bath's Tale deserve a proper showing."

"Other stories have been condensed into sketches, songs or even limericks. Many of the lesser-known tales would be rather unpalatable to a modern audience without a good pinch of irony."

WHAT'S ON

I always like to get 'mincing' into the title of my shows

Julian Clary is touring the country with his The Joy Of Mincing show which he brings to Hoddeson in October. He tells us what we to expect when he takes to the stage and why he now enjoys village life so much Julian Clary, the much-loved flamboyant comedian, is busy bouncing around the country on a sell-out tour. Aptly entitled The Joy Of Mincing he springs on to the stage in Hertfordshire on Saturday, October 11.

We were lucky to catch up with him in a rare moment between gigs to have a chat about his career and life in general.

There is a theme in the titles of his tours which he explains: "I always like to get 'mincing' into the title. We've had Lord of the Mince, Natural Born Mincer, and Mincing Machine was my first tour in 1989.

"I don't know why, it sets the tone, doesn't it?"

Is it done to provoke?

"I think there probably is some disapproval. And mincing, which is an old-fashioned word, was probably in its day borne out of standing up in the face of that disapproval."

Julian is set to celebrate his 30th anniversary in showbiz, a huge achievement, and it has to be asked: is this show as rude as ever? "I don't think so. It's the one time you can let rip a bit, on stage. I don't want to be filthy for the sake of it. You can exaggerate who you really are on stage and I'm quite fond of moments of vulgarity."

The show is an eclectic mix of stories about the ups and downs in his life, a true and meandering tale about how he saved Joan Collins's life in a swimming pool in St Tropez and, as always, lots of interaction with the audience.

He says: "I'm always looking for an excuse to talk to the audience. That's what keeps me going. You get bored if you're just reeling off the same old nonsense. People are very funny and they never fail to amuse me."

His enthusiasm for touring clearly hasn't worn off. Where other comedians complain about the lack of company and the bad food, he says: "Well, nobody's making you do it. And there's a Waitrose in every town these days."

"This is what I wanted to do 30 years ago, standing on stage, talking about myself and getting applause for it. What's not to like? I suppose it's a bit weird coming off stage and being on your own, but it doesn't bother me."

30 YEARS IN SHOWBIZ: Julian Clary

Going from one extreme to the other, in comparison his personal life is very quiet and sedate. Living life in an idyllic rural village in Kent is a world away from the raucous comedian on stage.

"I like pottering around in my garden. Am I good at it? I'm very good at walking around and telling my gardener what to do."

And are you well known in your village?

"Well, who knows? Most people have got better things to do than get excited about celebrities in their midst. Mind you, I was in the front garden recently and a woman drove past with a friend, I heard the car screech to a halt and her say 'There he is, look, there he is'."

Then she shouted out to me, 'Where's the other one?', meaning Paul O'Grady, who lives in the same village.

"Quite rude I thought!"

When he's not being heckled by random women in his garden, Julian has busy beaver away on this third novel, another addition to The Bolds series.

The second instalment was released earlier this year and has been hugely successful, as was the first. He says: "I just have such a lovely time writing them. Making children laugh is a whole new thing for me, it's lovely."

"No child pretends to laugh, it's genuine. And it's obviously a world away from my usual filth which is liberating."

■ Julian Clary will be appearing at Hoddeson's Spotlight theatre on Saturday, October 11

So who you gonna call?

Since announcing the all-female line-up, Paul Feig's remake of 80s classic Ghostbusters has faced backlash. The director and his leading ladies tell Gemma Dunn why the comedy should be given a fair trial

Paul Feig always knew rebooting Ghostbusters would be a challenge, but the American film-maker remains hopeful that his take on the iconic supernatural comedy can be judged on its own merit.

Of the speculation over his decision to cast four comic female leads – Melissa McCarthy, Kristen Wiig, Kate McKinnon and Leslie Jones – the 53-year-old admits he's frustrated that “every time you star women in a movie it becomes the story”.

“It just shows how far behind the times Hollywood has gotten,” exclaims Feig, who also helmed 2011 hit Bridesmaids.

“I almost don't blame audiences, because they only react to what they've been fed. I think the fact they haven't seen a lot of movies starring women is Hollywood's fault, and I just hope we can get past it being an issue.

“Every time I do a movie, I feel like it's a litmus test. But I get it. This is a giant tent pole and it's important to me that this movie does well to tell Hollywood, ‘Look, women can star in these movies – let's break the mould’.”

But out of Feig's dream team, who you gonna call?

MELISSA MCCARTHY AS ABBY YATES

Re-teaming with Feig for the fourth time (previous collaborations include Bridesmaids, The Heat and Spy), Melissa McCarthy takes on the role of Abby, a scientist with a passion for all things paranormal.

“Abby has always been the believer,” explains 45-year-old McCarthy. “It doesn't matter if people are making fun of her, which they always have. She's always believed in the paranormal. I love that she's stayed the course, no matter what.”

Working with her long-time friend Kristen Wiig (both started out in LA comedy troupe The Groundlings) was also a draw for the popular actress, who admits she would ask Wiig's opinion – “Is this fun, is this weird?” – for quick edits.

Of their characters' friendship, she says: “It's a little bumpy in the beginning, but you can tell the history is there. And that's easy to portray with Kristen, because I've known her so long and she's one of the greatest people I know.”

The mother-of-two says the female-led cast “felt right”.

“The first time all four of us were doing a scene, it made sense. It was really, really fun.”

Adding to the enjoyment is Thor hunk Chris Hemsworth, who plays the Ghostbusters' dim-witted receptionist, Kevin.

Comedy pro McCarthy was impressed – and not just with his looks, stating: “He's one of the best improvisers I've ever worked with. He was saying some of the strangest stuff, completely in character – we had to hold for four minutes while Kristen and I tried to stop crying with laughter. He even started singing once, and I had to stop him... I guess he's just bionic.”

KRISTEN WIG AS ERIN GILBERT

Like Abby, Wiig's character Erin believed in ghosts as a child, but as her physics career grew, she realised her fascination with the paranormal was holding her back and hurting her credibility.

“Erin wanted to live a life where she wasn't the weird one, so she left the paranormal world behind and went into academia, becoming a professor at Columbia University,” reveals Wiig. “She finds Abby again and meets Holtzmann and Patty. As it turns out, they're these four misfits that find each other.”

“I love that kind of story,” she adds, beaming.

Mirroring McCarthy, the 42-year-old actress, comedian, writer and producer – known for her sketches on NBC's Saturday Night Live (SNL) and co-writing comedy epic Bridesmaids – was similarly thrilled to be working with familiar faces.

“It's so much easier,” she gushes. “Sometimes when you're working, you might have a bad day or you might have something going on, and it's so nice to turn to someone you're working with and talk about something, or just have someone there. You really feel like you're with family.”

Of her co-stars, she adds: “Leslie makes me laugh so hard with everything she does. I don't even have words for what she does with every line. And Kate's the best. I find her so interesting. She's fearless – she takes chances every scene. She does the unexpected, and it's always funny. I love watching her.”

KATE MCKINNON AS JILLIAN HOLTZMAN

McKinnon's character, referred to as Holtzmann, has always been an oddball.

“I loved the idea of playing a scientist,” muses the 32-year-old actress and comedian. “I like playing a woman character that doesn't revolve around a romance, which is rare in a movie. I'm so glad to have been given that opportunity.”

She describes her character as “a genius”.

“She's the tech geek in all of this, which is usually the geekiest geek. She is in charge of perfecting the machinery that allows them to accomplish this mission. She is an essential creature. She's bizarre, she's freakish, she's full of joy. She is me!”

“Yes, this is the closest character to my actual self that I've ever played.”

Much like her co-stars, Feig had New York-born McKinnon – also known for her standout role on SNL – in mind, casting her for being a “nutty weirdo in the most wonderful way”.

“There's something about her

ROLE REVERSAL: Erin (Kristen Wiig), Kevin (Chris Hemsworth) and Patty (Leslie Jones)

that's so charismatic – she's a movie star,” he says. “It seemed like the part could be a great showcase for her, so it was a really easy decision.”

LESLIE JONES AS PATTY TOLAN

Patty, who was born and raised in New York, is an avid reader when it comes to all things historical and paranormal.

Of her character, 48-year-old Jones says: “Patty brings the normalcy – she reads a lot of books, she's a sponge for facts and keeps her mind open. It was important to me and to Paul that Patty is the one who says what people are going to say in the audience.”

But the SNL star confesses being cast in the big-screen reboot still feels surreal.

“I keep thinking I'm going to wake up in my apartment in Santa Clarita, where I was before everything happened, and go, ‘seriously, that was a great dream’,” she jokes.

Refusing to let her mood be dampened by the critical furor surrounding the all-female sequel, she adds: “I don't understand gender controversy because there are two sexes, so why is there controversy?”

She prefers to focus on the fact she got to perform her own stunt: a stage dive.

“It was so gangster!” Jones bellows. “Paul wouldn't let us do a stunt without him doing it first.”

“He was like, ‘Oh it's easy’, and he just turned around and jumped off, and I was like, ‘Ahh well, if he does it in a suit, I have to do it’. It was awesome.”

■ Ghostbusters opened in UK cinemas on Monday, July 11.

Ghostbusters with girl power

Ghostbusters

COMEDY: (12A) 116 mins
Director: Paul Feig
Starring: Melissa McCarthy, Kristen Wiig, Kate McKinnon, Leslie Jones, Chris Hemsworth, Neil Casey, Andy Garcia

If there's something strange in your neighbourhood, who ya gonna call? Filmmaker Paul Feig. The hugely successful director of Bridesmaids, The Heat and Spy applies a gender reversal to an effervescent remake of the 1984 supernatural comedy about a quartet of parapsychologists, who make a living capturing spooks in New York City.

Nostalgia oozes like ectoplasm from every glossy frame of this special effects-laden Ghostbusters, including cameos for most of the original cast and repeated bursts of Ray Parker Jnr's infectious theme song.

"I ain't afraid of no ghosts," deadpans one familiar face and it's certainly true that there are few jumps in a script co-written by Feig and Kate Dippold that awkwardly marries spectral scares with twisted humour.

The monstrous Stay Puft Marshmallow Man and greedy green ghouls Slimer play their part too.

Actress Melissa McCarthy, the director's lucky talisman, is in fine fettle, effusively trading quips with co-stars including a scene-stealing Chris Hemsworth as the team's hunky receptionist, Kevin, whose chest measurement exceeds his IQ.

"You know an aquarium is a submarine for fish," casually remarks the beefcake in one of his cerebral interludes.

Erin Gilbert (Kristen Wiig) hopes to secure tenure at Columbia University, but her academic future is thrown into disarray when childhood friend Abby Yates (McCarthy) peddles copies of their long forgotten 400-page tome, Ghosts From The

SPOOK SQUAD: Abby (Melissa McCarthy), Erin (Kristen Wiig), Holtzmann (Kate McKinnon) and Patty (Leslie Jones) are ready for action in the new Ghostbusters film Past: Both Literally & Figuratively.

The two women are reunited in the lab where Erin conducts experiments with her madcap protégée, nuclear engineer Jillian Holtzmann (Kate McKinnon).

A haunting at Aldridge Mansion gives the trio their first glimpse of the fight ahead, and soon after, ballsy subway worker Patty Tolan (Leslie Jones) joins the team, blessed with an encyclopaedic knowledge of Manhattan's grim history.

It transpires that a demented misfit called Rowan North (Neil Casey) is summoning ghosts to create a vortex between the living and the dead.

Armed with prototype backpacks, the gang gallantly races into the fray, risking ridicule from the media and Mayor Bradley (Andy Garcia).

When disaster looms, Erin pleads with Bradley to evacuate the city.

"Please don't be like the mayor in Jaws!" she screams, urging direct action rather than caution.

Ghostbusters affectionately harks back to the series' glory days before the creative misstep of the 1989 sequel.

McCarthy and Wiig rekindle their Bridesmaids on-screen chemistry, with colourful turns from McKinnon and Jones, and merciless self-mockery from Hemsworth.

The script papers over gaping holes, including the absence of a backstory for kooky arch-villain Rowan, with spectacular action sequences and pop culture references like when the team claims a ghost flung a man out of a window and an incredulous cop replies, "You mean, like Patrick Swayze?"

Presumably they are saving a pottery wheel seduction involving a topless Hemsworth for the sequel.

Quirky cottages for you to try

In my previous column you may remember I was singing the praises of cottage holidays? Well, as promised, today I am sharing some of my favourite holiday cottages, all set in beautiful locations around the UK.

Now I'm warning you, folks, these won't be to everyone's taste and some are not for the faint-hearted because they are the most rustic, most characterful cottages I have discovered on my travels so far. But if you're looking for an adventure and you want to get the kids off their iPhones, then then look no further... they won't know what's hit them!

Mellinzeath Farmhouse

- Where is it? Helford, Cornwall
- Price from: £333 for a week
- Pets: Welcome, of course
- Sleeps: 4. However, I wouldn't recommend it for four adults, as the sofa would accommodate only two or three comfortably.

RUSTIC LIVING

Jodie May writes about craft, nature and a rural life

Would fit two adults and a couple of kiddies though.

■ Where to book:
www.forgottenhouses.co.uk/properties/mellinzeath-farmhouse-helford/

THIS is one of the most beautiful and idyllic cottages I have ever visited. Both the cottage and its surroundings are extraordinary.

With a thatched roof, thick granite walls and a huge inglenook fireplace that heats the whole house, Mellinzeath is a real step back in time, and it even has 1,000 years of recorded history.

It is set in a valley with its own meadow, a babbling brook and woodland to explore all around... but before you book, you should know this cottage is not for the faint-hearted. There is no TV or wifi (though there are books and games), there is no central heating (but the fire is more than enough) and there are no mod cons (which I love).

But if you're looking for an adventure, and if you want to watch bats while roasting your chicken on a spit over the fire while lounging in a hip-bath cowboy style (there is a roll-top bath, too), then this place is for you.

I was unsure about the bathroom at first as it adjoins the house, so you have to go outside to get in (not too convenient when one needs a widdle in the night, right?), but having stayed here twice, I can honestly say the outdoors factor isn't a problem – plus there are chamber pots under the beds! This was my first time using a chamber pot and it was quite a novelty... just be careful not to drop it down the stairs.

Do note, this cottage is not suitable for those with agility or disability issues as it cannot be reached by a car since there is no proper road leading to it, which is why it's so wonderfully secluded. You have to walk to and from your car through a beautiful woodland track (approx 600 metres). On arrival, however, you will be met by a jolly Englishman who will give you and your luggage an exciting, bumpy ride to the house in his large truck, since normal cars won't tackle this windy, rocky track.

Titchbourne

- Where is it? Shropshire
- Price from: £324 for a week
- Pets: 2 welcome
- Sleeps: 4

Titchbourne, Shropshire

■ Book here:
www.cottages.com/cottages/titchbourne-cottage-9882

TITCHBOURNE is a very special cottage and, like Mellinzeath, it is a step back in time.

Nestled among the Shropshire hills on a 200-acre farm, it's perfectly secluded in an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty with walks straight from the door and views of the beautiful valleys all around.

The cottage stands alone, looking out over a beautiful valley. The mature garden is bursting with flowers and wildlife, while the cottage itself is cosy, simple, rustic and full to the brim with charm and character (and it has a lovely roll-top bath).

Visit in spring and you'll be surrounded by newborn lambs on the drive into the cottage – though if you love eating lamb, I wouldn't advise visiting then, as I haven't eaten lamb since.

Come and give Rugby a "TRY" for free!
For girls and boys aged 6, 7 and 8

Harlow Rugby Club Mini Section
 Mini Rugby is a series of simplified versions of rugby to introduce kids to the game.

Timetable for the day...
 10:45: Arrival and Registration at Harlow Rugby Club
 10:55: Kids split into their age group sections (by school year, so kids can bring a friend from their class and have someone they know there to support them)
 11:00: Warm up
 11:00: Games
 11:45: Break from the exercise to learn a song
 12:00: More games
 12:30: Closing Ceremony, kids will gather to sing
 12:40: Thank you for bringing your kids along and certificate presentations to the kids who have taken part and refreshments will be available.
 12:50: Finish and a chance to talk to the coaches with any questions

Do I need to sign up in advance?
 Please email pauloweneynon@gmail.com including your Child's Name, Date of Birth, School Year, Address and any medical conditions.

How do we coach mini rugby at Harlow?
 It's about a kids centric approach so we put what they want at the centre of what we do. We ask them lots of questions, set them challenges and spend more time working in small groups on focused skills. What children learn from Rugby Union is Teamwork, Respect, Enjoyment, Discipline and Sportsmanship.

What do my kids need to bring?
 Just turn up with a drink for your child and make sure they have trainers or football boots, shorts and a shirt.

How much does it cost?
 This is a one off session just for fun so it is free!

Can I leave my child with you?
 Sorry no, not for this session, please stay and watch the session this time.

Who can I speak to?
 Call Paul on 07881518260 or email pauloweneynon@gmail.com

PROPERTY TALK

>with NIGEL LEWIS

House that's from Russia, with love...

You may not know who Boris Pasternak is but you'll recognise the name of his most famous book, Doctor Zhivago, the epic love story set in Russia during the run up to the First World War.

The book was finished in 1956 but immediately banned in Russia and not published outside until a year later, albeit to worldwide acclaim. The epic story, which includes a bewildering array of characters and locations, received an even wider audience when it was turned into a film in 1966 by British director David Lean.

Starring Omar Sharif, Julie Christie, Rod Steiger, Alec Guinness and Tom Courtenay, the film was a huge global box-office success and won five Academy Awards.

Boris Pasternak was not only a novelist but a member of a high-achieving family. His father Leonid was a famous impressionist painter while other family high-fliers have included a renowned biochemist and a philosopher.

The most recent member of the family to win acclaim is UK-based author and journalist Anna Pasternak, Boris's great grand-daughter. She is most famous for her 1994 book Princess In Love, which revealed the love affair between Princess Diana and James Hewitt.

She has written a new book due to be published soon, Lara, which explores the love story said to be the inspiration for Doctor Zhivago – the long affair that took place between her great grandfather Boris Pasternak and his mistress Olga Ininskaya. A six-part TV series based on the book is also to follow.

Anna is also moving house and has put her home, White Cottage within the Fawley Court estate near Henley-on-Thames, on the market. It's a three-bedroom Grade II listed former summer house built by Sir Christopher Wren featuring an extraordinary hexagonal drawing room. The property is on the market with agent Savills via its Henley office (01491 843000) for £1.275 million.

HOT GOSSIP

Flat with celebrity pub downstairs

FOR some drinkers there is nothing sadder than the sight of a derelict pub. And that's the fate that befell The Cross Keys, a former Georgian-era watering hole that, like many thousands of pubs across the UK, struggled to attract enough customers.

What's different about The Cross Keys is that it's had some very famous customers pass through its doors including painters JMW Turner, James Whistler and James Singer Sargent, writer Agatha Christie, poet Dylan Thomas, The Rolling Stones and reggae star Bob Marley. More recent patrons have included The Duchess of Cambridge, who popped in once for a drink, and Piers Morgan and Zac Goldsmith, who have both campaigned to save it.

Their efforts were not in vain. The pub, which is in on Lawrence Street in Chelsea, London, was reopened earlier this year after a three-year closure and a £500,000 refit and is now being run by Mark Dyer, who has connections to the royal family.

This includes the fact that its sister pub, The Brown Cow, is a favourite haunt of Prince Harry and his high society mates.

But The Cross Keys is no longer just a pub. The upper floors have also been given a makeover and converted into four luxury apartments.

The latest of these to come on the market is this two-bedroom maisonette offering amazing views over West London, available via Winkworth (020 7589 6616) at £1.695 million.

Carol's property move adds up

TV's Carol Vorderman should know a thing or two about property. As well as a long run co-presenting on the cult Channel 4 show Countdown, the Welsh-born mathematician presented ITV's Better Homes.

It was a home refurbishment game show in which contestants competed to do up properties for a cash prize. The person who added the most value to their property won each week's show.

Vorderman was clearly paying attention while presenting the programme, which ran for five years during the early noughties.

In 2007 she bought a modernist detached house for £1.1 million and then set about renovating the unusual property, which is just outside Clifton Village in Bristol.

But the five-bedroom house, which was built during the 1970s, is now up for sale at £2.6m so she and her mother, who has lived with her for years, can move nearer to the centre of Bristol.

Vorderman also has some ambitious plans for her career. Next year she is planning to be the ninth woman to complete a solo round-the-world-trip in her plane despite getting her pilot's licence just two years ago. Her endeavours are to be filmed for a Channel 5 documentary.

In the meantime, her Bristol property is on the market with agent Knight Frank (0117 911 4665) and comes with a large landscaped garden, heated swimming pool and four reception rooms.

FEATURE PROPERTY > Frog Hall, Old Harlow

Impressive and delightful with mature grounds

Frog Hall is a beautifully presented family home set within superb established grounds of just over one acre.

The present owners have improved the property considerably and it now offers comfortable appointed accommodation over two floors.

An impressive reception hallway featuring oak flooring continues into the main reception rooms and kitchen/breakfast room.

The spacious sitting room with feature open fireplace and twin bay windows overlooks the front courtyard with ornamental fountain and fishpond.

The formal dining room links between the sitting room and kitchen/breakfast room.

An extensive bespoke fitted kitchen links via French doors to a beautiful double glazed Victorian-style conservatory.

From the first floor landing there is access to all of the bedrooms including the master with fitted wardrobes and period style en suite bathroom.

The property is being marketed for £1,295,000 by Mullucks Wells office in High Street, Epping. To view this property, please contact the Epping office on (01992) 560560.

Good morning Charles,

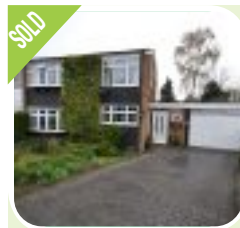

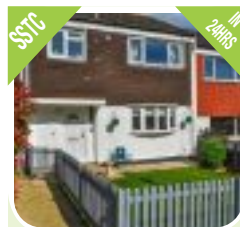

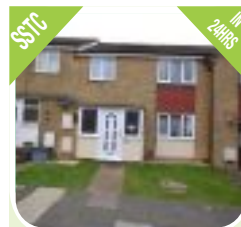

Both you & Lucy have been very professional and charmingly helpful from the outset - not at all pushy like certain other Harlow estate agents! Who valued our house at £250,000 but Apple Tree achieved £277,000. I would have absolutely no hesitation in recommending your services to anyone requiring an estate agent with 'the personal touch'.

Thank you for your honest service & fee which you have certainly earned.

Kind regards,

J.Lock

POWER TO THE PEOPLE

FIRST DRIVE Hyundai Ioniq

BY CHRIS RUSSON

ECO driving is moving to the top of the agenda at Hyundai with the launch of the new Ioniq – a car designed specifically to exploit electric power.

The Ioniq is a family-sized hatchback which will be available either as a petrol/electric hybrid, a pure electric vehicle or a plug-in hybrid, each offering the potential of huge tax savings.

Priced from £19,995 for the hybrid and £24,495 for the EV – after the £4,500 Government grant for low emission vehicles – the Ioniq is more than a match for the likes of the Toyota Prius and the Nissan Leaf.

All Ioniqs come with automatic emergency braking, adaptive cruise control and lane keeping systems and higher grade models, costing £1,800 more, feature a TomTom Live sat nav, wireless phone charging and full connectivity for Apple and Android devices.

It may be Hyundai's first take on hybrid and electric cars but it is a premium package that continues the Korean brand's upmarket shift.

Not only is the Ioniq high on value it is also exceptionally economical and comes with Hyundai's five year, unlimited mileage warranty which for the EV has been extended to eight years and 125,000 miles for the high capacity lithium-ion battery pack.

The electrical systems on both the hybrid and the pure electric car are effective and efficient giving the hybrid a theoretical fuel return of 83 to the gallon with emissions as low as 79g/km and the EV a range of almost 175 miles with zero emissions.

Real world figures are impressive and we averaged 63mpg on an open road run in the Ioniq hybrid and completed a similar 50 mile route in the Ioniq EV with almost 60 miles worth of battery power still available – and that included high speed motorway work.

The plug-in hybrid, which won't be available until next year, is expected to have emissions as low as 30g/km which equates to an incredible 215-plus miles per gallon – although that is purely on paper.

Both the hybrid and the EV – which will be available in October – are roomy, comfortable and nicely appointed with boot space ranging from 443 to 1,505 litres in the hybrid to 350 and 1,410 in the EV – the reduction to accommodate the batteries slung under the rear of the car.

Realistically it has little impact on the Ioniq's practical side and a bonus is a lower centre of gravity than a Golf GTI – all of which helps on the handling front.

The hybrid uses a six-speed dual clutch transmission rather than the CVT set up favoured by other hybrid car makers and it gives the Hyundai quite a sporty feel.

Not only does it start up in electric mode but it can also run at motorway speeds with the petrol engine disengaged and there are no gripes about its composure.

Drive modes on both versions of the Ioniq can be varied and on all but the basic models the digital instrument panel changes colour and layout accordingly. Move into sport mode and there's a red hue to the dials and the rev counter become predominant.

As with all electric cars there are plenty of displays about battery state and power flow and the Ioniq also has a digital read out for driving style measuring everything including 'aggressive' throttle use – intriguing stuff.

The pure electric car comes with additional software to enable features such as pre-heating the cabin while still hooked up to the mains while the sat nav is configured to show EV relevant information such as the nearest available charging points.

The Ioniq hybrid is fitted with Hyundai's 1.6-litre Kappa petrol engine which is tried and tested but tuned for economy on this model. It develops 141ps and is hooked up to an electric motor delivering a further 43ps.

The result is a 0 to 60 acceleration time of 10.8 seconds and a maximum of 115mph. The power delivery is prompt and progressive – no lag as you can experience on other hybrids.

The electric version is even more rapid with the motor on the Ioniq EV pushing out the equivalent of 120ps. It can handle motorway speed with ease, accelerate rapidly if required and stop almost on a sixpence as soon as the accelerator is released.

That's down to its regenerative braking function which uses deceleration to help recharge the batteries and there are four degrees of regeneration which can be selected using paddle shifters mounted on the steering wheel.

The effect is as marked as on BMW's i3 electric car and means that with a bit of practice the Ioniq can be driven in traffic almost without having to use the brakes.

There is no gear lever to operate – just three buttons to press on the centre console for forward, neutral and reverse.

The Ioniq EV is also fitted with an electronic parking brake with an auto function for use in traffic. The hybrid has a foot operated parking brake mounted to the left of the pedals.

Inside, the Ioniq's cabin is nicely finished with trim highlights in blue on the hybrid and copper on the EV – touches which are repeated on the exterior, particularly across the rear diffuser.

The grille is blanked off on the EV to assist aerodynamics – the hybrid has an active shutter system for the same purpose – and the electric-only version comes with LED headlamps, another energy saving feature.

That apart the two cars are largely the same and look sleek and purposeful. Like Toyota with the Prius, Hyundai has opted for a split rear window to incorporate a spoiler which does impact on rearward vision although there is a camera system for manoeuvring.

As is the vogue with eco cars the Ioniq is 'green' not just on performance but also in construction with environmentally-friendly materials used in the fabrics, plastics and the body finished with bio-paint.

On the EV version charging to 80 per cent capacity can be done in less than 35 minutes from a rapid charger. From a home charging point a full recharge will take around four-and-a-half hours.

Hyundai's mission statement with the Ioniq is to make eco driving affordable to everyone – and with the car priced so competitively against both the Prius and the Leaf it has considerable potential.

As a brand it has already set out its stall as an eco-champion by being the first to put a hydrogen-powered fuel cell car into mass production and that's on sale now as a £53,000 derivative of the ix35 SUV.

The Ioniq chops some £30,000 off that while still being minimal on emissions – just the ticket for the modern motorist.

Haileybury

House Matron

37.5 hours, term time only

20 hours per week outside of term time (optional)

An individual is required for an extended role in one of our boarding houses within this outstanding independent boarding school.

The House Matron is responsible for creating a cheerful well-ordered environment where pupils and visitors feel welcome. In addition, they will act as the responsible adult to deal with emergencies, contribute to house meetings and events and liaise closely with the Housemistress or Housemaster with regard to pupil welfare and day to day requirements.

In partnership with the Domestic team, the successful candidate will also be responsible for ensuring an acceptable standard of cleanliness in the boarding house, supervision of all domestic tasks within the house, complete cleaning tasks within some areas of the house, co-ordinate pupils' laundry, linen, uniforms and undertaking any minor repairs, as necessary.

Previous experience of working within a school or young person environment and working in a cleaning/supervisory role is desirable.

For an application pack, please visit <https://www.haileybury.com/my-haileybury/careers-haileybury/support-staff-vacancies> or, alternatively, please contact Human Resources on 01992 706379.

For an informal discussion, please contact Mrs Lynn Dix, Head Matron on 01992 706377.

Closing Date: Friday 22 July 2016.

Haileybury is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all staff to share this commitment. Applicants for the above post must be willing to undergo child protection screening, including reference checks with previous employers, prohibition checks and a criminal record check via the Disclosure and Barring Service.

Sales Executives OTE £45,000

We are looking to recruit Sales Executives to join our successful team. Whilst motor industry experience is not essential, you will need to possess previous selling experience and feel comfortable dealing with customers on the telephone and face to face.

You will therefore need to possess excellent customer handling and communication skills, be self-motivated with the will and desire to meet and exceed customer satisfaction and sales targets.

In return, we offer outstanding earning potential, company car, full training and genuine management development opportunities.

For an informal chat and further information please call 0333 323 1084 (9-6 Monday to Friday).

Vehicle Technicians

Following recent acquisitions we are also looking to recruit both Qualified and Apprentice Vehicle Technicians to meet the increased demand within our Toyota workshops and strengthen our existing team.

Ideally as a qualified technician you will have some franchise experience and be looking to progress your career further. Trainee applicants for the Apprenticeship should have a keen interest, good practical skills and the ability to develop an understanding of modern technology.

Partly qualified apprentices will also be considered.

Excellent basic salary plus generous bonus, Employee Car Scheme. Structured training and development.

Please email your CV to our Recruitment partner andy@profilersourcing.co.uk or call 01908 576994 during office hours for an informal chat.

Essex County Council

(Low Hill Road, Roydon) (Temporary Prohibition of Traffic) Order 2016

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council intends, not less than seven days from the date of this notice, to make the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.
Effect of the order: To temporarily close that length of Low Hill Road in the Parish of Roydon in the District of Epping Forest as specified:

Road	Description	Alternative Route
Low Hill Road, Roydon	From its junction with Park Fields for a distance of 45m South west.	B181 Epping Rd, Reeves Lane, Hamlet Hill, Netherhall Road and vice versa.
Low Hill Road, Roydon	From its junction with Epping Road for a distance 25m south west.	B181 Epping Rd, Reeves Lane, Hamlet Hill, Netherhall Road and vice versa.

The closure is scheduled to commence on 25th July 2016 for four weeks or where appropriate signs are showing and weather permitting.

The closure is required for the safety of the public and workforce while gas replacement works are undertaken.

Access for emergency service vehicles and pedestrians will be maintained at all times during the closure.

The Order will come into effect on 25th July 2016 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

Expect stern words from those you work with this week, but try to realise that it's only out of care for your future, not out of need to disarm and break you. A change you did not want to happen in the family is actually beginning to sit with you far better than you thought it would. Proof of this comes from events and conversations this weekend. Ring now for the full low down on life and love.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 348 65p per minute

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

Try to spend some time alone this week thinking about what you want out of life. You have been asking for answers from those who have not known you long enough to form a valid opinion. If you look back over the events of the last month, then you will see for yourself how far you have come. Ring now to hear why it's worth saying yes to unexpected plans over the coming seven days.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 65p per minute

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

Your career comes under the spotlight and you see with ease what needs to be done to take control of your life. No longer do you feel the need to follow the crowd, but you realise you are an individual and you embrace the idea of doing things your way or not at all as a stubborn mood sets in. Ring your starline right now to hear how fellow Gemini are winning being led astray by.

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

Work and play go hand in hand and you start to realise that you are able to have fun with your work. You also see which friend could be lower material and some of you Cancerians will be taking the lead in love in ways you'd never previously had the confidence to do. Careful of an ex or old friend trying to claim something which isn't rightfully theirs. Ring now to delve deeper.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 351 65p per minute

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23

You should, by the end of this week, have managed to worked out exactly what a close one's mixed reactions really mean. Your ruling planet the Sun makes it possible for you to bring out the best in those close to you. Those who said no last week will be willing to say yes this week. Negativity helps you reignite a lost dream. Go for it! Ring now so I can help you find your confident feet again.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 352 65p per minute

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22

You get word on a change you have been waiting for, but were beginning to give up hope on. The home comes under the spotlight from Tuesday when you make a decision about what needs to change and why. Your ruling planet Mercury helps you to take your career up to the next level and you meet with those who have the power to help you. Call now to reveal your destiny.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 353 65p per minute

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

I can see you're in need of a break, but you're unable to take one until you find out what a certain person's intentions are. You've had to wait with baited breath for some time now, I see that. But I also see that you've excelled with your patience and calm and have managed to impress many people around you. So you're the winner after all! Call now for news of an upcoming wedding.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 354 65p per minute

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21

You know you need some help, but pride is standing in the way of you getting it. Try to draw on the strength of your ruling planet Mars and push for a change of heart. People who want to help you don't care about what went before, they just care about the now. Remember this when being offered assistance financially and emotionally this week. Call now to reveal a lot in your circle.

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20

Careful of believing lies this week, as you've already been fed some whoopers by close ones and aspects suggest they're continuing to reel you in. An emotional time in family matters has made it impossible for you to know who was to blame but, slow your pace, keep your calm and all will be revealed directly to you by Friday. Ring now to hear how new attractions beckon through work.

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20

There is a lot for you to learn from family and friends this week as they pull together to help you through something you had thought was a solo matter. Not so. You also discover that you have friends in high places professionally as, at the eleventh hour, you are given a yes to something you have already been given a no to. Ring now to hear how flirtation is irresistible for your sign.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 357 65p per minute

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19

You thought you knew a lot and you were right, but this week you discover you actually only knew the middle of the story and you are about to discover the beginning and the end. Uranus makes it hard for you not to let those you don't like know how you feel about them. Calm and collect Aquarius, give them a second chance. Ring now to hear why I think you should.

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 - MARCH 20

There are many reasons to celebrate this week. Before you start to push for changes, make sure they fit in with those who would be involved, as aspects suggest that you have not consulted them directly. A new hobby, sport or recreation changes your mood towards those around you, thank goodness! Call now so we can talk about life and love.

Bath, the Cotswolds & Oxford

Departing on 2 September 2016

Enjoy the best of the city and the country on this leisurely break. Together, Bath and Oxford offer a wonderful mix of history and heritage. Bath takes its name from the Roman Baths which lie in the heart of the city and are among the best preserved Roman remains in the world; it's the only place in the country where you can bathe in natural hot springs. Oxford is recognised for its scholarly credentials, along with its spire-filled skyline which makes it a beautiful place to while away time. Within easy reach of these cities we find the Cotswolds, where you cannot help but to relax and unwind as we explore honey-coloured villages set in glorious countryside.

Cricket

HISTORY: Harlow Cricket Club's U15s with coach Simon Baulcomb

Youngsters are history makers

HARLOW Cricket Club's U15s landed the club's first ever county cup victory with a wonderful performance and a 33-run victory against Leigh-on-Sea at Marigolds.

Max Baulcomb and John Tasker got Harlow underway against some accurate seam bowling.

Max went first trying to hit a six over point but only managing to dolly one up. Asad Naqvi reached 5 before holing out going for a booming drive.

Reece Galvin and John carried on the good work and after 12 overs Harlow were at 54-1 but still had not hit a boundary.

Reece fell with the score on 70. That brought Jake Hitematshah to the wicket and in the space of four overs he smashed 27, including one mighty six.

That got Harlow to 118 off 20 overs. John Tasker ended up 35 not out.

Thomas Smith Hughes hit a quick dozen at the end and what looked like being a modest score, ended up a challenging one.

Leigh's reply was dealt a savage blow in the first over when Thomas clean bowled John Spencer for 0 with a yorker.

Abbas Shah and Thomas kept it tight with neither going for many and at halfway Leigh had only mustered 35 with Abbas chipping in with a wicket

Jake and Reece also gave nothing away, each picking up wickets and with five overs to go Leigh needed close to 12 an over. Albie Gifford and Mike Prince both took two wickets each and Louis Macardle got in on the act.

"The boys fielded like tigers with barely a misfield in 20 overs," said coach Simon Baulcomb.

"A fantastic win by the lads, a first ever county cup win for the club, which sees us advance to the national rounds with a game against the Herts winner at some point soon."

SILVER STAR: Adam Pope shows off his medal

Pope delivers silver sermon

JUDO: Harlow Judo Club's Adam Pope grabbed a silver medal at the British Schools Special Needs & Visually Impaired 2016 Championships in Kidderminster.

This specific level of competition caters for all levels of players with special needs to include those that are visually impaired but are generally excluded from mainstream judo.

Pope, 20, had three fights, all against very difficult opponents but nevertheless, he fought hard and managed to clinch the silver medal.

Harlow Judo Club, based in Foldcroft, does cater for those with special needs and Pope is the coach specifically in this area.

Khawaja hits brilliant 145

CRICKET: THERE was plenty of success for Harlow Cricket Club on Saturday with wins for all the club's senior teams apart from the seconds who lost to runaway leaders Old Southendians.

The first team got back to winnings ways against local rivals Loughton in Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One.

Batting first Harlow were once again indebted to Ahmed Khawaja who struck a magnificent knock of 145 from a total of 290 from their allotted 50 overs.

The support came from Alan Jones (38), Ubaid Ur Rehman Kiani (46) and a quick-fire 23 from Nicky Baxter to help Harlow reach their impressive total.

In response Loughton made a dignified attempt at chasing the Harlow total, but they were eventually bowled out for 254 in the 43rd over.

The wickets were shared around by the Harlow bowlers with Luke Heskett and Mitch Howarde being the most impressive.

The second team lost to a confident Old Southendians side, who bagged their tenth successive win.

Old Southendians scored 283 from their 45 overs, Danny Stone was the pick of the Harlow bowling attack.

In reply, several Harlow batsmen made decent starts but no one could go on to make the big score required to challenge the Old Souths score. Syed Ali top scored with 39.

Vin and vigour behind cycling club's revamp

Exciting new era beckons for relaunched Harlow group

by Alan Scott

sportsdesk@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE first Englishman to win a stage of the famous Giro d'Italia is helping to spearhead the relaunch of Harlow Cycling Club.

Vin Denson, 80, who lives in Old Harlow, competed six times in the Tour de France during the 1960s and 1970s and became a household name. He is putting his name behind the newly-revamped club which holds regular meets and rides across the region.

Two cycling clubs based in the town have linked together and membership has more than doubled.

In its heyday, the Harlow Velodrome was a fantastic complex and the cycling club was at its height in the 1960s and 1970s, having been formed in 1956.

But the closure of the track and a downturn in the popularity of the sport led to the demise of Harlow Cycling Club in the late 1980s.

The new club hopes to hold a special 60th anniversary event to celebrate the milestone of its original formation.

Popular

In the last seven or eight years, cycling has once again become incredibly popular with Great Britain dominating at successive Olympics and Harlow-born cyclist Laura Trott among many winning a multitude of medals at the Games.

The original Harlow club was launched by former Daily Express cycling correspondent Ron White and his wife Kath.

Vin explained: "Ron and Kath White sold Harlow Cycling Club to me in those pioneering days of the sixties.

"I was pushed on by Ron, who for decades was the Daily Express cycling correspondent, and covered 36 Tour de France."

Lee Valley Cycles, based in The Stow, is a meeting point every Tuesday for members of the newly-revamped club.

Owner David Wales has taken an active role in resurrecting the club and has been appointed Development Officer.

Hub+Spoke, based in Bush Fair, is also a big player in driving forward Harlow Cycling Club, in order to make it one of the biggest cycling clubs in the region.

Denson hopes the club can recruit more members.

He said: "Although I cannot help physically, I want to reach out and inspire the club to develop and grow again. We have taken over a smaller club in Essex and now we will soon be 100 strong.

"I want everyone to feel part of the legacy of Ron White and the inspiration he gave me to cycle."

Along with his Tour de France exploits, Denson raced in three Giro d'Italia and seven World Cycling Championships.

He would love more young people to take up the sport and join Harlow Cycling Club.

He added: "I was one of the pioneers. I want all youngsters to know I was just a novice racing at 17. Like me, you can make the big time."

One option the club is exploring is using the new Harlow Rugby Club venue as a base. This is being built at Latton Farm off Howard Way and Second Avenue.

Current rides the cycling club stages are a 50 mile road ride on Tuesdays, Sunday morning road rides of 25, 50 and 70 miles, off road rides of 20 miles on Sunday mornings, Thursday evening 15 mile off road rides and Thursday evening 15-mile tow path rides.

To find out more about the club or join it, contact David Wales on 01279 897900. It is also trying to recruit benefactors.

Alternatively you can turn up on a Tuesday evening at Lee Valley Cycles to find out more information about the club.

BOSS BACKS BISHOP TO HIT GOALS

New striker set to shine

by Matt Mundy

sportsdesk@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman is delighted to have bolstered his striking department with Kieran Bishop, and believes he will score goals galore for the club.

Bishop joined up from local rivals Ware where he netted 30 times last season, and he turned down more money from other clubs according to Chapman.

The manager said he brought him in to compete with prolific goalscorer Alex Read, with the duo offering plenty of firepower as they move up into the Ryman Premier.

"I tried to get him two years ago and he ended up going off to Hornchurch when they were in the Ryman Premier," said Chapman.

"We needed to get Alex some help. He is probably the only out-and-out striker we've got. We've other players that can play in that position, but with scoring goals, we wanted to take the weight off of his shoulders.

"Kieran will provide that. Not to say Kieran is just a back-up by any means, but it's great competition for places also.

"We looked at it last year and we wanted to try to strengthen our forward area, but the people we spoke to didn't work out and it wasn't the right time.

"To add Kieran, we're really pleased and scoring 30 goals last year speaks for itself. I genuinely believe he'll score more with us.

"He had other clubs probably offering more money than we were, but he feels this is the right place for him, so that's testament to the football club.

"He came in and trained and he liked the way we do things. We try to do it as professionally as we possibly can - you've got great facilities, so it all adds to it."

Chapman has also added goalkeeper Ed Thomson along with Jamie Smith and he is eyeing another midfielder and winger.

"Jamie was with us two years ago," he added. "Technically, he is the best player I've ever had play under me. When he left last time he needed some time out for his own reasons, but that's done and he's ready to go.

"There is possibly one, maybe two more that might be added."

Fitness

Chapman said those signings, along with keeping the bulk of the squad which got promoted via the Ryman North play-offs last season, has given the place a feel-good factor in pre-season.

"They've all come back with a good standard of fitness, which gives a good base to work off of.

"They've worked extremely hard in the sessions so far and the games kicked off on Tuesday night and we're pretty much Saturday, Tuesday until the first game of the season."

Skipper sees the positives in Park defeat

HARLOW Town captain Neil Gladwin was upbeat despite his side's defeat to high-flying Gidea Park & Romford on Saturday.

Gladwin's men sit third from bottom in Shepherd Neame Essex League Division Two after the six-wicket loss.

"We have played some great cricket this season and I said to the boys not to get downbeat after one blip," said the skipper. "Daniel Baldwin, Ashley and Shaun Alderson as well as Ben Eversden batted brilliantly for us, and it just needed another to also get a decent score and we would've posted well over 250.

"We are on the road for the next two weeks, against the bottom two of Leigh-on-Sea and Wickford, so we will know what kind of fight we will be in after these two games.

"It'll either be a fight to finish high in the league or to maintain our division two status. I have every faith in this group of homegrown players and as long as we continue to fight for each other, we'll be fighting towards the top of the table."

Relish

Winning the toss, Gladwin decided to bat first, trying to emulate last week's performance on a similar looking wicket.

Harlow could not have wished for a better start as newly formed opening partnership, Baldwin and Ashley Alderson, set about the visitors' attack with relish, bringing up the 100 stand in the 16th over.

Baldwin tried to work a delivery to leg and was trapped lbw for 41. Alderson was caught on the square leg boundary for 58 off 62 balls.

After that wickets fell fairly regularly and Harlow threatened to fall short of 200, but Eversden and Shaun Alderson had different ideas and they finished on 236-7 off their 50 overs.

With the ball in hand, Harlow Town struggled to make any real impact on the Gidea Park batting line-up, although Eversden deservedly finished with 2-41.

Jack Elston came back to clean bowl opener Hewitt for 42 and at 98-3, Harlow knew they had to strike quickly to give themselves a hope of winning.

Unfortunately Shaun Findlay batted with controlled aggression to take the game away. His 77 came off just 55 balls to win it.
